Hampton names human resources director

Sept. 18, 2013 - The city of Hampton has selected a human resources director with 15 years of experience, much of it in Hampton Roads. Nicole Munford Clark, human resources director for Orange County, N.C., will begin in Hampton Oct. 14.

Clark worked for the city of Chesapeake for 11 years, leaving as assistant director in 2011 to become Newport News public schools' director of human resources. She also has worked in private industry with First USA Bank in Wilmington, Del.

City Manager Mary Bunting said, "I am very excited about her background and impeccable references, and believe she will be an excellent fit for our organization and community."

Clark is a graduate of Hampton University and received a master's degree from Wilmington College in Delaware. She also is a graduate of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill School of Government county administration course. She has professional designations as Senior Professional in Human Resources from the Society for Human Resource Management, and Certified Professional from the International Public Management Association for Human Resources.

"I grew up in Hampton Roads, and I am honored to have been selected as the city of Hampton's director of human resources," said Clark.
